

*A Better World?
Could It Be?
YES, It Can!!*

Where Sharing Resources,
Forging Collaborative Relationships, Enhancing Universal Comfort, Dignity and Harmony are the Foundations towards a Truly
Transnational Civil Society

Would you like to exponentially multiply the potential impact of one? Is the world around you working together the way you would like, the way you dreamed? Did you know that even the thinnest strands combined and woven together can become the strongest and can subsequently achieve more? Would you like to be a strand with us, creating new avenues of sustainable strength? If the answer is yes, then, your heart, mind and body have arrived to the right space, where the capacity of one courageous soul deeply rooted in service to dramatically change the world is not underestimated nor undervalued.

Who

ShareResourcesNow is a social venture catalyst of people and organizations interested in forging a better world for this generation, and those whose journeys will depend on how we share resources today, how we share resources now. There is boundless potential for sharing between those rich in goodwill and resources, and those rich in goodwill yet poor in resources.

ShareResourcesNow promotes the idea of a common humanity where the minds of business meet the reality of the poor, and offers a two-way exchange of knowledge, empathy, funding, awareness, and compassionate contributions. It is a synergy point where altruism meets capitalism. ShareResourcesNow will nurture and enable a flow and interconnectedness of resources for mutual satisfaction and benefit.

Inspired into being by a Potter's House discussion with Muhammad Yunus about his dream for making money available to the poorest of the poor, the dream shared then, and unfolding here, is to make resources available to the poorest of the poor by fully leveraging technologies that have mostly benefited the business world.

centric and community born organizations, whose main mission is to better the world, be it in their small corner of the world as a whole.

Wise use of this technology and shared platform provide a global forum for goodwill organizations all over the world, increasing not only their profile on the human stage, but also getting more and more people to see and

The technology developed and successfully utilized by business to generate revenue and profit will be fully leveraged to generate goodwill, understanding, and sharing by creating a centralized exchange, where creative matches are made between those with resources and those without them. We plan to bring the story and mission of these organizations to the attention of as many viewers of the World Wide Web as we possibly can, and in so doing, generate a new audience for them that will be the spring of resource exchange.

In partnering with WorldInfoNow, a geocentric portal catering to the needs of global business and civic institutions, we will be ever-presented to the many visitors that they receive.

The state of the art technology and a flexi-dimensional approach to accessing data allow a sharing of information and resources to meet the unique needs of major sectors of society.

WorldInfoNow and ShareResourcesNow both build on experiences of the Hall of the States, business intelligence optimization, global sales solution, and the benefits of virtual integration.

In close collaboration with WorldInfoNow and its content rich database of geocentric and business information, we are developing a global database of community-understand their plight and needs, and subsequently, help them with contributions in the form of money, technical assistance, food, medical supplies, and other basic needs that those on the rich side of the world take for granted.

Key Features

ShareResourcesNow will provide nonprofits an increased ability to harness and use the power of the World Wide Web as a tool for individual and collective good.

A unifying strength of ShareResourcesNow and WorldInfoNow is embracing the philosophy of simplifying access to information from multiple sources in a unified point of reference. A flexible-dimensional platform provides the ability to easily search, browse, publish, and access information:

Targeted and relevant Information is presented in ready-to-use formats with source attribution. Utmost attention will be focused on collaboration and continuous development for this tool to be useful to persons with disabilities and persons and organizations with limited or special access needs.

SHARING in a BOX

A unique vehicle for awareness heightening will come in the form of an innovative and interactive tool bar that will highlight 10 organizations, representing various continents and needs. This toolbar, affectionately called "Sharing in a Box", will be placed on the WorldInfoNow and ShareResourcesNow Web sites, and will invite the viewer to browse through and vote on an organization that has somehow touched them.

This is not a frivolous or empty vote, as it will be tallied at the end of the month at which time a donation of revenues from WorldInfoNow and other potential sources will be "shared" with all of the organizations based on the percentage vote they received. In addition, each featured organization will have an option on their page to receive a direct donation from the viewer; therefore, increasing the sharing. On the page will also be links to other organizations similar in mission or in the same geographic area.

The "Sharing in a Box" bar will then be refreshed every month with new organizations featured, and an e-mail will be sent to the previous voters letting them know of the results of their vote, and to invite them to vote again on a new group of organizations worth their time and attention, ultimately, the resources that they might bring to this increasingly large table.

On its second anniversary Casa Alianza Nicaragua today has a lot to celebrate, having helped more than 700 street children over the past two years. On May 25th 1998, Casa Alianza Nicaragua began to serve street children through its outreach team of street educators. Since that time the organization has provided these children with nearly 10 thousand acts of attention including educational and recreational activities as well as medical attention.

The street educators team at Casa Alianza Nicaragua is made up of six educators, who are specially trained to work with the street youth population, who in Nicaragua are 75% boys and 25% girls mostly between the ages of 12 and 16. To date the educators have identified a number of focal points where street children congregate and organized special networks of attention for them. This month the organization has also assigned two female street educators to work exclusively with street girls, whom are consistently more difficult to contact. As well as offering outreach services, Casa Alianza Nicaragua runs a 24-hour crisis center for street children, which was inaugurated in August 1998. The center has space for 34 children and over the past 20 months has attended nearly 500 different street children and youth, many of whom have since been reintegrated back into their Getting things right from the very beginning will ensure longevity. We are reaching out to socially conscience business people, organizations, and lay people.

You are invited to be a part of the birth and nurturing of this vision. Initial participants include committed social philanthropists open to creative uses of wealth that can have a broad yet measurable impact on people of many religions, many races, many cultures, and many socio-economic backgrounds. These sources form the cornerstone contributions toward helping to finalize research and development required.

Moving forth together, our shared journeys and life's experiences can come together to make a profound difference in the world.

While many nurturers of this vision are pitching in their own two copper coins in the bowl, it is the help of those with excess that will help this become a sustainable reality.
